

JFK, Aides Scan Cuban Situation

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — A meeting between President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was termed Friday highly probable for the near future. The precise reason for the parley was not immediately specified.

Progress Report

Kennedy got a progress report on Cuban matters from his top advisers.

He met for more than an hour with the executive committee of the National Security Council and sat down with defense and budget men to go over the big military spending budget for next year, when it may hit an estimated $48.3 billion.

JFK, Mac Talks Set

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is reported hoping his expected meeting with President Kennedy will produce an Allied strategy that would draw Russia away from Red China and nearer the West.

Macmillan and Kennedy are expected to meet some time after Christmas in Washington or Bermuda. British aides said Friday night Macmillan is convinced the current trend of the cold war presents the West with golden chances.

Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Lord Home have confided to friends their belief that the Soviet Union will become increasingly ready to accept cold war settlements.

This forecast evidently has been based in part on their reading of the Cuban crisis and on China's thrusts into India. Both developments have deepened the conflict of interest and tactics between the giant Communist neighbors.

Macmillan therefore may be expected to argue when he meets Kennedy that Allied policies should be reassessed and loosened so as to allow swift responses to offers and initiatives which might emerge from Moscow.

Revamp Soviet Party

MOSCOW (AP) — The Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party adopted Friday a sweeping reorganization of industrial and agricultural management proposed by Premier Khrushchev.

The Central Committee approved a resolution recommending adoption of Khrushchev's drastic reshaping of party and government organs at the final sessions of a five-day meeting.

The resolution, as broadcast by Moscow radio, said the drastic measures were necessary to "correct serious shortcomings" in the national economy. Included in the Khrushchev reorganization program were the following steps:

1. A top-to-bottom reshuffling of the party organization, splitting it, in effect, into separate branches to deal with industry and agriculture.
2. Institution of a similar split at certain levels of local government.
3. Consolidation into larger units with tight controls from Moscow, of the national economic councils set up by Khrushchev in his 1957 decentralization program.
4. Virtual liquidation of the state planning committee, transferring its planning duties to a central organ set up to administer the enlarged economic councils.

The Central Committee resolution also approved various measures consolidating on a nationwide scale all technical research, design and construction activities.

Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant White House press secretary, said it is highly probable that the President will meet some time soon with Macmillan.

Hatcher refused to be pinned down on the date or place or the probable meeting, but it could be in either Washington or Bermuda, where they have met before. It would be the sixth meeting between the two since Kennedy took office.

Christmas In Florida

London sources said Macmillan will come to the United States some time after Christmas. Kennedy's schedule is pretty well filled up into December, and he

Holiday Death Toll

The toll of accidental deaths mounted Friday as the Thanksgiving holiday reached its midpoint.

A rash of multiple-fatality traffic accidents spurred the highway death toll.

There were no National Safety Council predictions for the 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday period. The council said holiday travel isn't as heavy on Thanksgiving as on other major holidays, although it said about 480 traffic deaths would normally occur in a Thursday-to-Sunday span.

However, an Associated Press tally of accidental deaths for a nonholiday, 102-hour span from 6 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7, to midnight Sunday, Nov. 11, showed 459 highway deaths, 30 fire deaths and 113 miscellaneous deaths.

Preacher Jailed For 90 Days

HENDERSON, Tex. (AP) — A Baptist preacher who left his bride of four months for a 16-year-old choir singer was sentenced to 90 days in jail Friday. He also was fined $500.

The Rev. LeRoy Daniels, 27, of Tatum pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He was sentenced by county Judge Charlie Langford.

Shortly after pleading guilty, Daniels signed papers agreeing to a divorce which his bride of four months sought.

The pastor of the Christal Farms Baptist Church in nearby Tatum ran away Nov. 2 with Flora Jean Cole, 16, after a football game.

An intensive search ended Wednesday when they were found in Wichita, Kan.

The girl was turned over to her parents despite her assertion in Wichita that "I do not want to go home. I won't stay home. I'll run off."

New Tax Proposal Ready For Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration has worked out tentatively a double-action tax proposal for the new session of Congress, and is quietly testing the reaction of key members.

The package, it was learned Friday, would be presented by President Kennedy as a single bill to be enacted in 1963 but would take effect in these two steps:

1. A substantial but partial tax cut to be effective retroactively to Jan. 1, 1963.
2. A second stage, to become effective Jan. 1, 1964, including a further tax reduction and the tax revisions and loop-hole closings wanted by Kennedy.

By combining the two steps in one bill, even the initial tax cut would not take effect until the reforms were written into law. Yet the economy would have the stimulative benefit of a year's tax reduction before the revisions — partly offsetting the revenue losses — came into force.

Mills has been described by colleagues as opposing any "quickie" tax reduction which would greatly increase the already large federal deficit in the absence of a real economic emergency, such as the threat of a serious recession, and also as opposing even a more deliberate cut unless it is accompanied by revisions that would broaden the tax base and tap revenue sources which have not been contributing their full share of federal income.

Mariner Spacecraft Beset With Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mariner, the U. S. vehicle heading for a mid-December rendezvous with Venus, has lost power from one solar panel and is beset with mounting temperatures, the space agency reported Friday.

Despite this the bug shaped space traveler, holder of the world's record for long distance radio communications — almost 18 million miles — is expected to complete its mission.

That mission is to pass within about 20,000 miles of the earth's sister planet, and get a closer look — through instrument readings — of what things are like on the Venetian surface, obscured to earth observers by a mantle of clouds.

On Nov. 15, the space probe lost power from one of two solar panels for the second time in its three-month flight. It was 17.6 million miles from earth when it happened. Enough power is being created from solar energy by cells on the remaining panel to carry out the mission.

It has happened before. On Oct. 31, power suddenly dropped, and

Nehru Feels Mountain Fighting Will Continue

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru warned the nation Friday night not to expect diplomatic moves — presumably Red China's peace offer — to bring a quick end to the Himalayan border war. He indicated he believes fighting now halted by a Communist cease-fire will erupt again.

Nehru's remarks were announced after he held conferences with special U. S. and British military aid missions on ways to bolster India's military strength against Red China's war machine.

In a written message to a youth rally, the 73-year-old Indian leader predicted "a long struggle and a difficult one, and we must not imagine that the struggle will be over soon because of various diplomatic moves."

Nehru has not announced his position on the Red Chinese offer to end the conflict but his message to the rally was the closest he has come to rejecting the offer. Feeling in India was running high against accepting the Peking terms, for this would mean India would have to give up claim to 12,000 square miles in Ladakh on the northwestern end of the disputed Himalayan borderlands.

Red China indicated it wanted no stalling from the Indians on its offer.

A New China News Agency broadcast monitored in Tokyo quoted the deputy premier and foreign minister, Chen Yi, as saying he hoped India would make a quick and positive response.

Maryland Airwreck Kills 17 Persons

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — A United Air Lines Viscount plane plummeted from a bright, sunny sky Friday and crashed in a woods on a farm near here. All 17 persons aboard were killed.

It was United flight No. 297 en route from Newark, N. J., to Atlanta, Ga. Four crewmen and 13 passengers were killed, including 10 persons employed by United.

One of the passengers was Spencer Silverthorne, of Beaver Falls, N. Y., president of the Empire State Chamber of Commerce, who was en route to Atlanta to attend a wedding.

No Hint of Trouble

The Federal Aviation Agency reported the pilot, Capt. Milton J. Balog, 39, gave no hint of impending trouble before the plane disappeared from a radar scope. The Viscount was preparing for a landing at Washington's National Airport.

The FAA said radio communications with the craft before the crash were "entirely routine"

College Professor Says Literature Books Are Scandalous

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A college professor said Friday that high school students are learning little or nothing about literature, and won't until "scandalously bad textbooks" are abandoned.

Arthur S. Trace Jr., of John Carroll University in Cleveland, Ohio, told the National Council of Teachers of English:

"For all practical purposes the literature of foreign countries is ignored entirely; English literature is at best wretchedly represented; nor can our students learn anything significant about the best literature of our own country or even its second-best literature."

Murder Suspect Still Critical

PHILIP WOLFE, accused of fatally shooting Atty. Karl A. Wagner of Milford on the village's Main St. Tuesday night, was reported still in critical condition late last night in St. Francis Hospital, Port Jervis, N. Y.

Wolfe shot himself in the throat in an apparent suicide attempt, police said, after fatally wounding Wagner. He has been questioned, but his replies were described as mostly incoherent.

Wagner was buried yesterday after funeral services in First Presbyterian Church, Milford, in front of which he was shot.

A large delegation of Monroe County attorneys attended the funeral. Wagner's body lay in state in the church from Thursday until the funeral yesterday.

Wade Seeks Taylor's Job

HARRISBURG (AP) — Republican state Sen. George M. Wade declared his candidacy Friday for president pro-tempore of the 1963 Senate, adding new strength to effort to top veteran Sen. M. Harvey Taylor.

"I am announcing my candidacy at the request of many fellow senators and Republican county chairmen," Wade, a 69-year-old insurance man from Camp Hill, Cumberland County, said in a statement.

Wade pledged however that he would not seek the $18,000-a-year office beyond a two-year term, claiming it should be rotated as was the practice 15 years ago.

"But I feel now I have had more legislative service than any other Republican senator and I am free of any old ties that would prevent me from operating openly and to the best interests of the people of Pennsylvania and the new administration," he declared.

Meanwhile, state Sen. Thomas Ehrsgood, R-Lebanon, who first ignited the growing opposition to Taylor last week, received Wade's announcement with joy.

"I am quite happy to hear Sen. Wade will be a candidate for the post," Ehrsgood said in a telephone interview. "He will make a fine candidate and demonstrate the kind of leadership we need in the state Senate."

Republican senators will get their chance to make that choice next Monday when they caucus in Harrisburg to name their floor leaders for 1963. The GOP candidate for Senate pro-temp will be decided then and there.

Actually, the full Senate elects the pro-temp, but the party in power—in this case the Republicans—always wins. The GOP has a 27-23 majority for 1963.

Even before Wade made his formal announcement, several of those leading the fight against Taylor had endorsed him.

Newly-elected Republican State Sen. Richard A. Snyder of Lancaster County issued a statement in Lancaster only one hour before, tabbing Wade "the most logical choice for Senate leadership."

And Wednesday night another newly-elected senator, Richard Frame, R-Venango, also boomed Wade for the job.

"Many of us admire Sen. Taylor as a personality," Snyder declared in his statement, "but the situation requires someone more responsive to change and someone who holds the confidence of the voters."

Political observers around Capitol Hill feel Wade will go into next Monday's caucus with the support of at least five of his colleagues.

The Chinese on Oct. 24 put forth a three-point proposal calling for both nations to pull back 12½ miles from what they called the actual control line, a halt to fighting and a summit conference between Nehru and Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai.

Last Wednesday, the Red Chinese ordered their troops to silence their guns. They said they would pull back their forces 12½ miles on Dec. 1.

The Indian Defense Ministry reported Indian forces were still operating patrols on the northeastern front where Red Chinese forces had plunged deeply into Indian territory before the cease-fire.

A spokesman said, however, that both the northeast and northwest sectors of the Himalayan front were quiet.

Indian military planners took advantage of the cease-fire to send in fresh reinforcements. But the Red Chinese also were believed to be reinforcing and consolidating positions they have gained in the 32 days of conflict.

Activity picked up in New Delhi.

W. Averell Harriman, U. S. assistant secretary of state, and others in his 25-man mission met with Nehru. So did the British undersecretary for Commonwealth relations, John Tilney, and Gen. Sir Richard Hull.

The two missions were reported going over the entire situation—from the Indian army's troubled supply system to its intelligence reports of Red Chinese strength. From this, a long-range plan is expected to emerge.

The United States has flown in $5.5 million worth of infantry weapons and radio equipment and more is coming by ship. Even more military hardware has been sent by Britain, Canada, Australia and France have offered help.

U. S. Air Force transports arrived in India to be placed, with their American crews, at the disposition of the Indian government for flying troops and equipment to battle areas inside India.

Cuba Resumes Airline Flights

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Domestic and international flights of Cuba's government-owned Cubana airline will be resumed Saturday, Havana radio said Friday.

All domestic flights were grounded by the Cuban government Nov. 18. It was believed that the order was intended to make it easier for Cuban radar to detect U. S. reconnaissance planes.

Boys Charged With Homicide

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police charged four boys with homicide Friday in the stabbing of a 16-year-old youth. Officers said the stabbing was a result of a battle between two gangs in south Philadelphia.

Police said William Coleman was stabbed in the back as he retreated from a rival gang Thursday.

Redemption: Man's Response ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 9:10-25; 13:1-3; 16:25-34; Romans 5:1-11; 10:14-13; I John 1:5-10; II Corinthians 11:24-28.

In Damascus, where the blinded Paul (Saul) was led by his followers after he saw the vision of the glorified Lord, there was a disciple named Ananias. In a vision the Lord told him to seek out Paul, who was praying and fasting in the house of Judas.—Acts 9:10-12.

Although Ananias knew that Paul had been a persecutor of Christians, he greeted him as a brother. As he laid his hands on him, Paul regained his sight. He rose and was baptized, "a chosen vessel" unto God, "to bear His name before Gentiles and kings."—Acts 9:15-19.

Immediately Paul went to the synagogues and proclaimed to his people, the Jews, that the long-awaited Messiah had come in the Christ they had all been persecuting. "He is the Son of God," he said. Eventually Paul was to become the most powerful Christian of his time.—Acts 9:20-22.

As Paul's power increased, the Jews plotted and killed him, for they felt he had betrayed them. He learned of the plot and escaped by being let down in a basket over the high city walls by a group of his friends.—Acts 9:23-25.

Religion Today:

Men Of Different Religions

They were men of different religions, discussing their opposing politics. But they found that they agreed on basic purposes and principles, and that they also were concerned with the same problems.

This was the result of an interfaith "dialogue," a spreading practice in America today, aimed at easing community conflicts related to religion.

It is an approach to troubled issues such as religion and schools, birth control policies and talking plainly with each other, instead of one-sidedly about each other.

The ensuring better understanding, and extent of shared views, often surprises even the participants.

"The difficult problems can be ameliorated through patient and honest exchange of ideas and the intelligent analysis of issues," says Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The agency, including representatives of Catholicism, Protestantism and Judaism, is engaged in a far-reaching, new project to bring the groups together, nationally and locally, to seek solutions to points of friction.

Set to run for five years, or longer, the program is called the "religious freedom and public affairs project."

This week, it held its first national institute in Washington, D.C., dealing with religious liberty, and to a large degree, the Jewish, Protestant and Catholic experts found themselves voicing common basic ideals—and objectives.

The same underlying concordant note has turned up in many local interfaith sessions, now increasing across the country.

"In several communities there was clear evidence of a changed atmosphere within the community as a result of the understanding and the good feeling that had emerged from the dialogue," a project report said.

"This doesn't mean differences in policies are overcome, but it does offer fuller joint understanding, and often brings out that the principles behind the differing policies correspond.

SCANT READING, POOR BOOKS LOCCUM, Germany (AP) — American clergymen don't read enough, but the reason may be that there are so many inferior books coming out in the United States, an official told an international conference of Lutheran publishers here.

"The nature of the conflict is changed," said Rabbi Arthur Gilbert, project consultant. "It allays the mistaken, hysterical stereotypes, and to a large extent, makes clear that the differences are not in principles, but only in applications of them."

So far, in its beginning year, the project reports that regular meetings are going on between the three faiths in 30 communities, and the number is increasing.

Clergymen and lay civic leaders meet monthly or more often.

Unlike the theological "dialogue" now expanding between Protestants and Catholics, with three-way talks are concerned with public and social questions arising from different religious approaches to them.

"It is time we got beyond the interfaith smile," said Dr. Jones, an Episcopalian. "It is time we got down to facing the hard questions of what it really means to practice our respective faiths in a free society."

A Ford Foundation grant of $325,000 helped finance the start of the project a year ago, and other foundations also are expected to provide further support as it goes along. President Kennedy has hailed the plan.

Parson To Parson

By R. G. MacLEOD

THE STREETS of our town will soon take on the glow of fantasy land. Stores will be glittering palaces of wonder wetting one's desire to purchase merchandise both for ourselves and others. The gift season is here, and from now on until Christmas we will be under the great advertising spell that intoxicates our minds with the "spirit of the season."

Gift giving is fun and should be both a joy to the giver and the receiver. This however should be done with moderation lest the material gains of the holiday completely obliterate the real glory of Christmas.

Like "Old Scrooge" at this time of the year I am transported into Christmas Past. As a little boy I looked forward to the great day and couldn't understand why the old folks had to spoil a wonderful fun time with hymn singing, prayer, and church attendance.

My selfish instinct could not understand any other joy than that of receiving a material present. Baby Jesus and "Silent Night" was just something that one had to suffer through as a penalty for having a wonderful time! I am ashamed to tell you this just how many years that this sad state of affairs held true.

The Lord did not touch my heart with the true meaning of Christmas until I was well into my teens. Oh, I sat in church from time to time and the best that I can say about it is that I occupied a pew. The sermons just didn't "get through"—in fact, I was bored stiff! I had eyes and could not see; I had ears and could not hear. A lost, lonely youth, bitter with the world and himself.

Christmas Past — I remember walking in the Bowers section of New York watching the bums drain radiators of autos through a loaf of bread to get their alcoholic binge for "Merry Christmas."

The ever present Salvation Army Kettle with a frozen bedraggled recruit ringing a bell to tear a penny or two away from passers-by so that the destitute could have Christmas dinner.

Shopping crowds in city department stores pushing, pushing, and even muttering curses at each other as they clutch their sale bargain and bawl out a sales person too tired to give her usual good service. Christmas spirit? "Bah, Humbug!"

The real Christmas is a story of Love Divine, Love so great that people cannot accept the fact that God can love so much! His Son, all powerful in Heaven, was sent to earth as a humble babe, to grow up as a mortal man, despised and hated, because He taught that to love the Father and each other, is the way to eternal life. He was the sacrifice to the law, between God and man (and that includes you and me) we have but to believe, then follow the teachings of Christ to be saved.

The meaning of Christmas can be summed up in one word — LOVE. Greater love has no man than that love God shows to us through His Son, a KING of KINGS born as a man to teach man love.

Today's Lesson:

Man's Response

By N. SPEER JONES

LAST WEEK we discussed God's gracious gift of salvation to man, His restoration of the perfect bond between Himself and man despite his sins. This week we study the other side of the coin — man's role in this wonderful redemption.

As in last week's lesson, much of our material is taken from the experiences of Paul, perhaps the Bible's most notable example of redemption — the arch-persecutor who became the most powerful Christian of the first century.

Our story picks up where last week's left off: Paul (Saul) still blinded from his vision of Christ, is fasting and praying in Damascus. God, as if to show us once more how important are those of us who seem to be obscure, chooses an unknown disciple named Ananias to cure Paul of his blindness. How often have our own eyes been opened to some truth of mind or feeling by just such a seemingly unimportant encounter with a stranger? This obscure layman was also chosen to baptize Paul.

Some interpreters of the Bible have held that Paul's sight was permanently affected by his vision; they cite his constant use of a secretary thereafter, and his reference in Galatians 6:11 to the large letters in which he writes.

When God told Ananias about his mission, He told him that Paul had been chosen to bear His name "before the Gentiles and kings," his special province, besides the Jews. It is thought that he preached before the emperor Nero himself, as well as to various Roman governors and to King Agrippa. This Agrippa is the seventh and last king of the family of Herod the Great; a Jew in religion, he was a Roman in politics. Paul preached before him and his sister, Berenice, at Caesarea (Acts 26) sometime before his death in 100 A.D.

A striking example of a man's response to God's call was Ananias.

He was summed up in one word — LOVE. Greater love has no man than that love God shows to us through His Son, a KING of KINGS born as a man to teach man love.

This then is the great Gift on Christmas. We give to each other in a small token of this greatest gift of all!

Christmas is much more than presents, parties and material gain. Christmas is love.

nias' greeting to Paul; although he knew of Paul's past, of his brutal persecutions of those like him, he greeted Paul as "brother."

Paul's response, in turn, was to "straitway" acclaim his former Enemy in the synagogues—an action he continued despite all the persecutions listed in II Corinthians 11:24-28. From persecutor, Paul had become the persecuted; the Jews counted him one of their worst enemies, for he had forsaken not only his former faith, but the trust of the high priest.

Acts 13:13 and Romans 10:14 both deal with the way in which a missionary should be sent out — he must first respond to God's call. A church does well to wait until God calls His own to His tasks.

Acts 16:25-34 describes another instance of an obscure man's response to God's gift of salvation. When the jailer is made aware of God's power, he gives himself immediately and totally to God's work.

The passages from Romans and John emphasize once more the fact that salvation is made possible only by the death of Christ, that it is received by believing in Christ and by confessing our sins and seeking forgiveness therefrom.

Teenage Teacher

By James D. Shafer

MISS Peggy Heckman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Heckman, Snyder, Pa., is a graduate of Stroud Union High School and is presently enrolled in Churchman's Business College, Easton, in executive secretary course.

"When I complete my education I hope to obtain a position in the area and continue teaching. However, if I am unable to find employment in the area and must go elsewhere I will offer my services as a Sunday school teacher there," she said.

Peggy, like all Sunday school teachers, has her instructor's book and takes it home with her each Sunday. "I study the lesson for the coming week at home and continue to think about it for several days. I then sit down and make my plans as to how I will present it to the children."

She continued, "The hardest part I find is finding the words to express the lesson so that the children will understand what I am saying."

"I have spoken to one of my instructors at Churchman's and he has told me that the hardest part of teaching is to lower your vocabulary to a level that the people you are teaching will understand," she concluded.

When questioned about her intentions in teaching after she is married, her answer was, "I have said before I enjoy it and look forward to it. I will continue to offer my services as a teacher as long as I am able to. I can not say now that I will teach. Who knows perhaps when the day comes there will be no vacancy. But, I will offer my experience and time."

Miss Heckman teaches a small group in the Sunday school. She should be congratulated and recognized for doing a woman-sized job well.

I will continue to offer my services as a teacher as long as I am able to. I can not say now that I will teach. Who knows perhaps when the day comes there will be no vacancy. But, I will offer my experience and time."

Miss Heckman teaches a small group in the Sunday school. She should be congratulated and recognized for doing a woman-sized job well.

last summer and says, "I enjoy teaching the small children. It is a satisfaction I receive but I cannot put it into words."

She is a graduate of Stroud Union High School and is presently enrolled in Churchman's Business College, Easton, in executive secretary course.

"When I complete my education I hope to obtain a position in the area and continue teaching. However, if I am unable to find employment in the area and must go elsewhere I will offer my services as a Sunday school teacher there," she said.

Peggy, like all Sunday school teachers, has her instructor's book and takes it home with her each Sunday. "I study the lesson for the coming week at home and continue to think about it for several days. I then sit down and make my plans as to how I will present it to the children."

She continued, "The hardest part I find is finding the words to express the lesson so that the children will understand what I am saying."

"I have spoken to one of my instructors at Churchman's and he has told me that the hardest part of teaching is to lower your vocabulary to a level that the people you are teaching will understand," she concluded.

When questioned about her intentions in teaching after she is married, her answer was, "I have said before I enjoy it and look forward to it. I will continue to offer my services as a teacher as long as I am able to. I can not say now that I will teach. Who knows perhaps when the day comes there will be no vacancy. But, I will offer my experience and time."

Belvidere Board Demotes Snyder

BELVIDERE, N. J.—The Belvidere School Board, at a special meeting last night, re-instated Gerald A. Snyder, East Stroudsburg, RD 2, as a teacher in the social studies department, but removed him as head of the department.

Snyder, a Republican, lost to Van D. Yetter, Jr., the Democratic incumbent, on Nov. 6 for Monroe County's seat in the State House of Representatives.

The board's action apparently was the result of Snyder's absence from his teaching post during the last days of the campaign which preceded the general election.

It was taken upon recommendation of the school board's personnel committee. Snyder was

Deadline Nears For Winter Wheat Diversion Program

DECEMBER 14 is the last day for signing up under the 1963 wheat stabilization program for farms in the winter wheat area, Donald Reish, Monroe County Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, has announced.

"This means that less than a month remains in which growers may file applications to take part in the 1963 winter wheat stabilization program," the chairman said.

"Farmers who participate in the 1963 program will be eligible to receive special payments for voluntarily diverting a part of their allotment or base acreage from the production of wheat and devoting that acreage to a conservation use, and they will also qualify for extra price-support payments and for the regular price-support loan."

Under this voluntary wheat reduction program, farmers may divert from 20 to 50 percent of their wheat allotment or base acreage, with special diversion provisions for small farms. The diverted suspended earlier as a teacher, but continued drawing pay pending action of the board.

Written Reprimand
In addition, a written reprimand from Edward E. Belet, superintendent of Belvidere schools, will be made a part of Snyder's record.

The board made his reinstatement as a teacher effective yesterday. Presumably he will resume teaching when school opens Monday. His suspension as head of the department was effective Nov. 6, the day he was defeated by Yetter.

At last night's meeting, Belet distributed a memorandum from him to members of the board and newsmen attending the meeting. It said:

"During the week of the first critical days of the Cuban crisis, which presented vast problems concerning the well-being of all pupils, Mr. Gerald Snyder, teacher in the high school social studies department and head of this department, made an oral request to be absent from school for the four days of Nov. 1, 2, 5 and 6."

The memorandum added that Belet notified the president of the school board and it was the consensus of board members that the absence of Snyder "was not in the best interest of the district."

Male Named To Pen Argyl Park Board

JOHN J. Cesare, a longtime member of the board of directors of the Pen Argyl Athletic and Park Association, operators of Weona Park, tendered his resignation at a meeting of the board in the Pen Argyl Town Hall.

Frederick Male, Jr., was elected to fill the vacancy for the unexpired term.

The board discussed the water problem at Weona Park and a report was made that the new well has been drilled to a depth of 215 feet, from which a flow of 22 to 26 gallons of water per minute is being realized, with the deep well water pump presently in use on a trial basis.

This flow will be sufficient to supply water for the park swimming pool and also to flood the ice skating pond south of the band shell when the weather is cold enough for this winter sport.

MAJ. EUGENE T. CARSON, president of the Fort Stewart (Georgia) Fish and Wildlife Association, displays the 150-pound, eight-point deer he brought down with bow and arrow this week. Maj. Carson hit the deer near the post archery range and trailed it for a short distance afterward. The arrow went completely through the animal, which was the largest bagged with bow and arrow at Fort Stewart since the beginning of this year's hunting season. Maj. Carson is the son of Mrs. Esther H. Carson of Woodland Road, Mt. Pocono.

One More Try?

If the creation of a domestic Peace Corps would wipe out poverty in America, few could be found to oppose it. Labor Secretary Wirtz holds high hopes that it will make long strides in that direction, but from what he says it's hard to see the basis for his optimism.

True, the National Volunteer Service Corps (the real name for the proposed outfit) will send people around to try to wheedle teen-agers to stay in school, and it may even serve as a "symbol" that America hasn't forgotten the less well-to-do in its midst, as he says.

But the Salvation Army, the Volunteers of America, missions of innumerable churches, the schools and many private organizations have been doing much the same job for years. They have proved that some individuals can be helped, and that there are also ever more individuals who will need help.

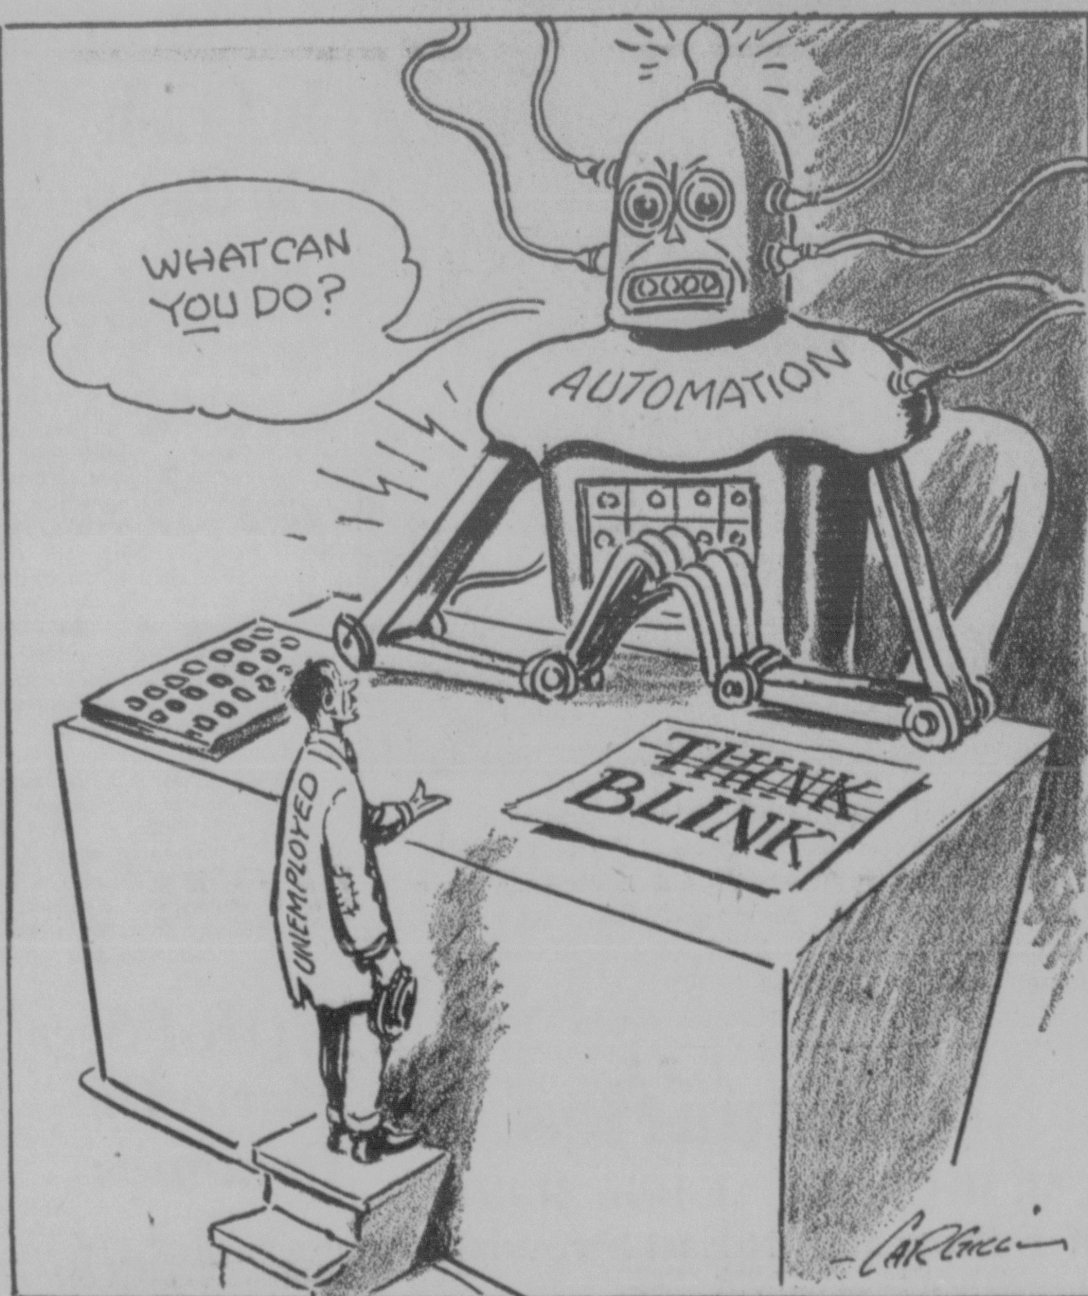

Is the Government equipped to take over in this field? One answer is to be found in Mr. Wirtz's proposal that these volunteer government workers head for the Indian reservations to straighten up the messes there. The Indian reservations have been in the complete charge of our Government since they were established. The Government itself, with all the solicitude and good intentions in the world, didn't prevent the deplorable situations from developing.

Most of the treasure that Americans give to the United Funds and Community Chests is placed in the hands of experienced and sincere workers who deal with the "sixth" of the nation that is living "below a minimum standard of decency," by Mr. Wirtz's description.

Billions have been poured into public housing and slum clearance. Playgrounds and parks have been provided, special schools set up, clinics and unemployment offices moved into the areas, relief payments made liberal, free surplus food doled out.

Never in history has so much help been available for the unfortunate and the neer-do-well alike. Yet, slums persist, crimes multiply and the nation's skid rows remain well populated. Before a vast new project begins, perhaps the Government should tell us taxpayers what new formula has been discovered and proved.

True! What Can He Do?

Should Be Memorial Park

There seems to be a general inclination of the Nation and States to build memorial parks to noted persons, or purchase old homesteads that have become famous. We have Mount Vernon for Washington, Monticello for Jefferson and one for Monroe, and many state shrines to honor former notables.

Pennsylvania might well at this time consider, if it is not already doing so, the purchase of the famous Gifford Pinchot property just outside Milford. The Pinchot place has a long and notable reputation as the show place of this part of the state and especially of Pike County.

Too late are people starting to realize the importance of securing historic sites and many are permitted to disintegrate or be destroyed instead of being given the historic honors which they are entitled to. With the big Tock's Island Dam and Reservoir getting nearer, now is the time to consider putting the Pinchot property on the agenda for making a public memorial park and museum.

Gov. Pinchot was a state and national figure of prominence for several years and the State should properly recognize his work. Also, Milford has much reason to act to add a local interest to its most important building and property, which helped put Milford on the map and drew thousands of visitors here yearly. If the property can be secured at this time, the matter would be safe.

The name Pinchot has been prominent in Pike County since about 1818, when Constantine Pinchot, who had come to the United States from Breteil, France, in 1816, decided to move to Milford where he had purchased 800 acres of land in Dingman Township. This was known for many years as the "French Lot". He died in 1826 and his son Cyrille succeeded him in business and as a leading farmer and foremost citizen. Ever since then the Pinchot name has been prominent in this section, and each generation added to the family's share in local matters.

To make a memorial park of the magnificent Pinchot property would be doing something worthwhile for posterity.

What's Wrong With Congress?

The new laws come piling in. I am now up to Public Law 87-884. It all takes time and Congress seems to meet forever.

This is a matter that stirs men's souls. The Golden Eagle may become extinct. The Bald Eagle is the symbol of our country. If the Golden Eagle goes, the Bald Eagle will go and the rodents will eat the crops. So Congress has to pass a law.

It could, of course, be done more simply. The Secretary of the Interior could issue a proclamation in defense of the Golden and Bald Eagles and all other birds that eat rodents, but then that would simplify matters and send the Representatives home to talk to their constituents to find out about Cuba and taxes and such matters. Instead, Congress must pass every kind of act and perhaps have a speech or two on the subject.

Just think of the mental effort that goes into a paragraph like: "Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the first two sections of the Act of June 8, 1940 (54 Stat. 250, as amended; 16 U.S.C. 668, 668A), are hereby amended to read as follows: 'Whoever, within the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, without being permitted to do so as hereinafter provided, shall take, possess, sell, purchase, barter, offer to sell, purchase or barter, transport, export or import, at any time or in any manner, any bald eagle commonly known as the American eagle, or any golden eagle, alive or dead, or any part, nest, or egg thereof of the foregoing eagles, shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both: Provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit possession or transportation of any bald eagle, alive or dead, or any part, nest, or egg thereof, lawfully taken prior to June 8, 1940, and that nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit possession or transportation of any golden eagle, alive or dead, or any part, nest, or egg thereof, lawfully taken prior to the addition to this Act of the provisions relating to preservation of the golden eagle.'"

Suppose it were all made easy by saying that anybody caught with one of these birds, dead or alive, would be fined $500 or put in jail for six months, and it was all just a proclamation by the Secretary of the Interior. That would give somebody in the Interior Department something useful to do, chasing eagle-shooters, while Congress debated on how to save our gold.

Every year, we watch the Representatives and Senators hanging around Washington waiting for the nod to vote aye or nay for a bill. Then comes around election time and they want to go home to talk to the constituents. But not that is when the worthy Senators and Representatives get loaded down with all kinds of bills, including important ones, and they are so anxious to go home to see the voters that they just can't be bothered reading the bills or debating them.

Of course, sometimes somebody like De Gaulle comes along and upsets the normal maneuvering of the politicians. He goes straight to the people and gets them to vote the usual and permanent politicians out of office. In their place, he puts himself and calls it democracy, and the people cheer. So De Gaulle has his way. He has, in effect, revolutionized the French political system and we have to watch to see how long it takes to revolutionize it back to what it used to be. Actually, De Gaulle has made less of the National Assembly and more of the Presidency, which our Presidents have been doing for many years.

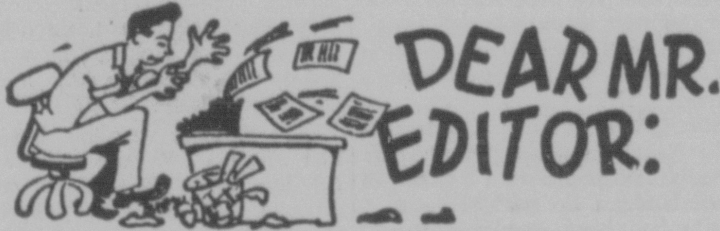

Nevertheless, as we are a romantic people, we have to give the Representatives and Senators much to do, so that they will not have time enough to do any very tough investigating. For instance, why does no committee of Congress investigate the Fourth Floor of the State Department to discover why those who put Castro on the Cuban throne are still employed by the American government?

Of course, if it is so important to spend time passing legislation about the Golden and Bald Eagles, how can anyone expect them to have time to go into the Cuban questions in depth?

Voice Of The People

Dear Editor: Many copies of the brochure "REPEAL ACT 561" were distributed before the elections (even though it was basically non-partisan). As a result, people have asked where we stand on this mandatory merger law as a result of election returns. Some even expected to see this on the ballot.

Unfortunately, it wasn't. The people did not, and will not have a chance to vote on any provisions of the law as it stands. But the election results proved that the voters can express their feelings on such issues.

A number of candidates campaigned on the issue of repeal or amendment to the school merger law. The people all over the state responded by scoring what were considered "upset" elections. In contests for State Senate, there were three such upsets. In Centre County, Daniel Baily upset incumbent Jo Hays who was one of the sponsors of Senate Bill 867 (which became Act 561).

A strong campaign against Act 561 in York County resulted in a victory for Robert Beers over incumbent Harry Seyler who was considered one of the leading spokesmen on education in the Senate that passed the bill by only one vote. In Allegheny County, incumbent Joseph Ripp was replaced by Jack Mc-Gregor who promised to fight the school merger law.

Allegheny County also overcame heavy registration odds in electing two new Assemblymen, Otto and Walker, replacing representatives who had voted for the law. A third is expected to be elected depending on recount.

Here in Monroe County Gerald Snyder no doubt could have beaten Van Yetter if he had campaigned solely on the School Reorganization issue.

Also in the House, Montgomery County showed incumbent Fry defeated by Robert Butera to make a solid block from that County opposed to Act 561.

Newcomer Wilmot E. Fleming registered the highest vote, including incumbents. There is no doubt that much of this was due to his outstanding work as chairman of the School Directors committee working for repeal of Act 561.

In Delaware County, Thomas Worriow won over incumbent Gremminger who had voted for the law. Similar gains were scored in Cambria and Clearfield Counties and there may be others. Governor-elect Scranton has promised he would sign a bill for repeal if it passes the legislature.

Yes, the voice of the people was heard at the polls.

Reports On Lisette Fund

Editor, The Daily Record: It has been difficult to put into words the sincere gratitude of the Dorothy Lisette Committee for the support given by the people of Monroe County. The names of the contributors would fill many columns, and the great majority of them would not welcome the publicity.

Without the cooperation of the Daily Record we could never have told the community about the need for support. To the physicians and staff of the Monroe County General Hospital we give special thanks for their unselfish contribution of service.

While the original goal was $2000, a total of $2615 was actually received. This sum was expended for the following:

1. Settlement of obligations in-curved because of 1 1/2 years of illness:

2. Changes in Miss Lisette's home to provide needed conveniences:

3. Payment of housekeeper, medical supply costs, living expenses.

We are very happy to announce that Miss Lisette is now actively teaching a number of music students and on the road to self-sufficiency. The heart of Monroe County reached out in the hour of need and gave one of our most valued residents a new opportunity for happiness and service. This kindness will never be forgotten.

Most sincerely, ALBERTA L. YUTZ, The Dorothy Lisette Committee

The Allen-Scott Report

Joseph Kennedy Driving To Speed His Recovery

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington, November 24 — There is a good chance that a dramatically poignant witness may be on hand when Ted Kennedy assumes his recently-won Senate seat on January 9. Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, father of the 30-year-old brother of the President, has been given cheering assurances by his doctors that he may be able to attend this ardently hoped-for event.

The 74-year-old multi-millionaire has made so much progress in recovering from the partial paralysis he suffered following a stroke last December that his physicians feel there is an excellent likelihood he can come to the Capitol for Ted's swearing-in ceremony — provided there are no intervening setbacks. Realizing this passionately-desired dream is a major factor in the elder Kennedy's steady improvement. It is buoying him up importantly in morale and physically.

In recent months, the rate of Kennedy's recovery has been marked.

He has regained considerable ability to move about. He can stand by himself, and walk with assistance. Similarly, his speech is much improved. He talks slowly, but clearly without undue strain.

A speech therapist visits him every day and spends several hours with him. Kennedy works hard and conscientiously at restoring his speech.

Until the weather became wintery at Hyannis, Kennedy seldom missed a day cruising on the family yacht MARLIN. It is now enroute to Palm Beach for his arrival there after Thanksgiving.

The one-time New Deal envoy swims daily in an enclosed heated pool that has been installed in the rear of his big Hyannis home. While in the water, he undergoes therapeutic treatment to strengthen his limbs. For this he uses special equipment built into the pool, including hand rails and an underwater bed.

Rugged Uphill Struggle — Probably Kennedy's biggest problem is combating boredom and a dismaying feeling of frustration.

Dynamic and active all his life, his sudden stroke and its crippling aftermaths have been an agonizing mental as well as physical ordeal to him. As he has laboriously fought his way back to improved health and activity, his greatest trial has been overcoming a sense of despair.

To help him in this bitter struggle, Kennedy has the constant and loving companionship of his niece, Miss Ann Gargala. She assists him in walking, accompanies him on the MARLIN and auto trips, and spends hours with him watching the TV and movies in a special projection room in the basement of his home. A one-time director of a large movie corporation, Kennedy is an avid movie fan.

He also is attended by three nurses around the clock. By special arrangement with a nearby radio station, soothing music is piped into his home.

At least one member of the large Kennedy family visits him weekly. This is done by pre-arrangement, and no week goes by that a member of the family doesn't spend some time with him. The President does so at every opportunity.

The President also telephones his father several times a week. The elder Kennedy now likes to answer the phone, and does so whenever he can.

Above all he lives for the day he will see his youngest son Ted sworn in as a U. S. Senator. Kennedy proudly boasts he had a great deal to do with that. To an old friend he recently said, "From the very start, I was the only Kennedy who was in favor of Ted's running. I said he could make it, and I was right."

Social Whirl — Louisiana's veteran Senator Allen Ellender, known among his colleagues as "the gourmet of Capitol Hill", nonchalantly says it is no trick at all to make his justly-famed gumbo for 300 guests. Ellender does that on various occasions, and the following is his recipe:

45 pounds of green shrimp (cleaned), 40 pounds dried onions, 30 packages okra, 15 quarts oysters, 15 pounds crab meat, 3 pounds well-smoked ham, 3 pounds well-smoked bacon, 2 dozen lemons, 20 large peppers, 8 stalks celery, 1 can thyme, 1 package bay leaves, 1 bottle Tabasco, 1 bottle Worcestershire sauce, 2 pounds rice, 3 pounds garlic, 10 bunches each of onion tops and parsley. With the gumbo, Ellender also serves a mixed salad and pickled cucumbers and cauliflower. For dessert, Louisiana pralines. . .

Indiana's new Democratic Senator Birch Bayh is so fond of green beans that, according to his wife, "he eats them like most people eat ice cream". The wife of the 34-year-old Marine veteran is a 29-year-old Oklahoma woman who met him at a college debate in Chicago, which her team won.

There was so much brass at the Defense Department's annual dinner-dance for foreign military attaches and their wives at historic Fort Lesley McNair, on the Potomac, that it glittered like a Christmas tree. Almost every uniform on the globe could be seen. Rank and guest was Lieutenant General Vladimir Dubovik of the Soviet Union. He has been in Washington only a year, but among military attaches rank and not length of service makes for precedence. Hence Dubovik is dean of these foreign envoys. . . West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer brought his own piece of resistance to the dinner. He gave at the German embassy. It was venison flown from his country for this event. Also served was caviar, cormorant with truffles, trout and andouille, artichokes with German mushrooms and a meringue glace.

Like Drano R. medicines may unplug continually clogged channels. Then you don't need surgery to fix your optical plumbing.

Necessary Surgery? Dear Doctor: The doctor wants to remove my womb to fix my sagging bladder. Is this necessary?

Mrs. W. T. (Manitoba) Dear Mrs. T.: Muscles and supporting tissue around the birth canal are overstretched. The bladder bulges from in front and the womb drops down from above.

Satisfactory repair is sometimes impossible without removing the womb. Why worry? You're over 40 and have all the children you want. You're merely giving up the starting place for a possible future cancer!

Lump Behind Ear Dear Doctor: My youngest has a soft lump behind her ear. Could this be a brain tumor? Her older sister has one.

Mrs. J. M. (Ohio) Dear Mrs. M.: Brain tumors cause lots of trouble inside the skull, but not on the skin behind the ear.

Your young daughter probably has a tiny skin cyst or swollen gland. Neither need treatment unless infection creeps in. These lumps are so common, you might even say they're normal!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Dear Abby

He's Just A Fanatic!

DEAR ABBY: My husband's brother is a health food fanatic, but I never thought my husband would get that way. Lately he won't let me give our children any candy, cookies, soft drinks or anything with sugar in it. He says sugar is pure poison. He won't let me use white flour or regular milk. He buys whole wheat and Macaroni products. I used to serve well-balanced meals and we were all healthy. If this keeps up my husband will be just like his nutty brother. Don't tell me to talk to my family doctor. We don't have one. My husband doesn't believe in THEM, either.

GOING MAD

DEAR GOING: Your husband has gone off the deep end on a subject that has some merit. If you are interested in getting the facts, your local health department has a wealth of literature on nutrition. Too bad you don't have a family physician. I think your husband needs one.

DEAR ABBY: Our son (he is 29) is being married for the second time. For his first marriage our relatives were very generous and gave him and his wife some lovely and costly wedding gifts. They were divorced two years later. He is being married in a church again to a lovely girl who has never been married. We do not want our relatives to go to the expense of buying wedding gifts for our son again. Is it proper to make a note of "No gifts, please" on the wedding invitations?

PARENTS OF THE GROOM

DEAR PARENTS: It is not proper to make a note of "No gifts" on the wedding invitations. Say nothing, and let your relatives use their own judgement.

DEAR ABBY: The day we moved into the Mobile Park, one woman immediately took me over. She called on me and gave me the rundown on everything in the trailer court, and according to her, there is something wrong with all of them except herself. She has no friends here, and has no one

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Time was when it took a month for a letter to get from one city to another, and such things as radio and television were unheard of.

Now we don't think in terms of miles — we think in terms of the time it takes to span them, and it doesn't take long to get around the world.

As for communications — well, they're instantaneous, these days.

But for all of that, we seem to find it just as hard to understand one another as we ever did.

Only one form of communication hasn't changed . . . God's method of communication. He speaks to you through His Church, and through a Bible that has survived the centuries. Go to church this Sunday, every Sunday, and hear His message for yourself.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

All day yesterday was Monday as far as I was concerned. It was the day after a holiday, there were left-overs in the refrigerator and the clothes hamper was full of tablecloth and napkins — that makes it Monday.

Except it was surprising to have the stores open Monday night and the traffic heavier than normal. However, that's the kind of mistake it's pleasant to discover. Wonder if it had really been Monday and I'd have been all primed for that Friday night let-down.

Anyway this does seem like a bonus weekend — particularly when the sun came out so brightly that you had to squint your eyes after several days of creeping around in semi-darkness. It should be a good weekend, if somebody doesn't spoil it by suggesting that it's a good time to address Christmas cards, complete the gift list, and start getting down the Christmas decorations.

It's all right to plan the College Christmas party while the college crowd is still home, and to bake up an early batch of cookies as Linda suggests, but everything else ought to wait until the last bit of turkey's off the bones.

Let's everybody sleep late and spend the rest of the weekend enjoying the company. It's a funny thing how the character of a holiday changes with a changing family.

Remember when your first baby was brand new — and you had just a little chicken and let him suck on the leg bone? Remember the years when all the family came home with the growing nieces and nephews and Grandma had to put up a card table for the younger fry and even the biggest turkey was scarcely big enough? And how you looked forward to that first time they came home from school — and were lucky to see them long enough to eat their Thanksgiving dinner, they were so involved in coming and going with their friends?

And then all of a sudden they're grown — and when they're home want to spend their time with you and are friends as well as relatives. I suppose the time will come when they'll just want to dump the grandchildren while they go off on a football weekend and the whole cycle will start all over again.

Each stage has its compensation, although it always seems that this one is the best of all.

Use very cold, but not icy water when you are testing candy. Even if you use a candy thermometer, it's a good idea to double-check with the cold water test.

Home Example Influences Teenage Drinking Probe Of Local Problem Reveals

"Our young people in Monroe County usually follow the example set in their homes when the question arises as to whether they will drink or not drink," said Henry McCool at the Stroud Union High School PTA meeting this week at the high school.

"If my father drinks, why shouldn't I?" is the youth's reasoning," he continued, following his remarks with examples of local behavior and incidents which he has had an opportunity to observe as county Probation Officer.

In the "Huntley-Brinkley" type of program which continued between McCool and Mrs. Rose Mekeel of the East Stroudsburg College, the audience had an opportunity to dwell upon their own family environment and its relationship to their growing children.

The speakers agreed that the young folks who would normally misbehave were the ones who would most likely continue the pattern by drinking at an early age and to excess.

It was suggested to the parents that they should examine their own reasons for drinking or not drinking, so to better discuss the subject with their young people.

Furthermore, it was suggested that adults not attempt to "cover up" the drunkenness of other adults in front of their children, but to explain, without laughter or excuse, that the person concerned had had too much to drink.

Since more money is spent in our nation for alcohol and the treatment of alcoholism than is spent on our education system, it was suggested that the church, school and home should cooperate in the education of our children concerning its effects.

Mrs. Mekeel gave the audience nine points, pointing out why teenagers drink:

1. The children feel they will be more popular.
2. Young people feel that by drinking they are asserting their independence.
3. If their parents have laid down the law against it—they are defying them.
4. Avoid insecurity, at least while drinking.
5. Afloat of being called "chicken," if it doesn't drink—they must conform to crowd.
6. Movies and TV glamorize drinking, in plays as well as commercials.
7. Parents own attitudes, speaking of friends who were funny or cute when drunk.
8. Parents own practices, such as giving child a sip of wine or beer at an early age.

9. Parents who provide an alcoholic environment, setting a poor example, on showing mental disturbance, lack of love and concern for child.

What Can Parents Do?

Mrs. Mekeel and McCool offered to the parents the following suggestions to the question: "What can parents do?"

1. Decide what attitude they want their children to take, remembering the laws of the land.
2. Set a good example in behavior and conversation.
3. Discuss alcohol and drinking with their children.
4. Refrain from using alcohol as a crutch in their family.
5. Discuss in groups—such as PTA meetings—the safe, sane way to handle the problem. Come to a group decision that there will be no drinking at teenage parties for which they are responsible.
6. Uphold the law in the community and see that it is enforced and that the teenagers have respect for it. (Admittedly this is harder in our small community where the bar owner may be a friend of yours).
7. Learn the truth about alcohol and alcoholism by using authoritative books with a scientific approach.
8. Above all, help your child to grow up to be the kind of person who does not need alcohol!

School Bill Discussion

To test the audience's own knowledge concerning alcohol, Mrs. Mekeel passed out a questionnaire to be filled in. The paper also had listed some good books about alcohol and adolescence for their further study.

At the regular meeting preceding the program, the following announcements were made. The Teenage Guide Contest winners will be announced at special assemblies on Tuesday, Nov. 27 at the school.

At the Monroe County Council of PTA organizations Wednesday, Nov. 28 the controversial Act No. 561 on School Reorganization will be the topic of discussion; the League of Women Voters have also set up a meeting, open to the public, on the subject.

"A Prayer to a Defeated Team" taped by Fran Shinn, was played by Mrs. Robert Miller, program chairman for the year, before she introduced Mrs. Robert Hellmann who served as chairman of the November program.

Hostesses for the refreshments for the meeting were Mrs. Harry Miller, Mrs. Herbert Nonnemacher and Mrs. Herbert Ayers, chairman.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

"STORE" GAZING—

USRAIS CBKSA OWND NO SIMLSISE! No, this isn't a linotypeman's revenge, it's a game! And if, in a moment, you can rearrange those letters to read "Russia backs down on missiles" you would probably be a whiz at a stimulating game called "Scrambled Headlines" which I discovered recently in our Toy department. There are four different boxes of these headlines, one devoted to show business (Wonder if there are any headlines about Zli and Rhunto?) ... another about sports ... a third devoted to history and a fourth on general subjects. For those who enjoy family pastimes that really quicken the wits and refresh the memory we ARTHLYE MONDCREME MHTTE! Each box is 77c.

I like fancy boxes. What about you? They rouse my interest and curiosity even though I know they are merely ornamental in many cases and contain nothing but air. In our Gift department we have some beauties of carved wood that could be used in any number of ways, or simply to look decorative. Some are elaborately inlaid. We usually have a supply of pretty tin boxes too, and these are useful to all who are packing Christmas goodies for shipment to relatives and friends far away from home. Some of these are designed to resemble pottery, and are most attractive.

The box that captured my eye the other day, however, is of satiny silver metal and is rectangular in shape, standing upon tiny legs. Its clasp is in the form of a gold leaf. In the lid is a mirror, and reposing upon red velvet are a jewel-like compact and lipstick. By DuBarry, this charming dresser accessory is priced at 12.50 plus tax in our Cosmetic department.

Also by DuBarry is a silver-toned metal evening bag with textured finish, also containing compact and lipstick. This is 15.00, and would be a truly romantic gift to find beneath one's tree.

From our Cosmetic department too, is a unique but inexpensive dish for use in bathroom or boudoir. This is cut glass held high by a graceful brass dolphin. If your bathroom is sufficiently exotic, you might use this as a soap dish. Many of our customers do.

And speaking of soaps, we have some in stock that are so beautiful no one would ever dream of getting them wet! There are boxes with MEM with gold baroque designs. One cake is 2.00; boxes of three smaller cakes are 2.00, and boxes containing six tiny guest size cakes are 1.50—all are stunning stocking stuffers.

We have hand decorated soap too with some of the most adorable decals you've ever seen. These are 75c and 1.00 a bar, I believe, and are cute as Christmas itself. Ask to see them next time you visit Wyckoff's. They are the perfect answer to "What shall I put in Santa's bag at the club meeting?" and "What little thing can I give a shutin to gladden her day?"

In the line of Christmas cosmetics, we might further mention the milk glass candlesticks (low, with handle) containing golden candles that are actually Revlon lipsticks. Each candlestick has a cluster of red flowers at its base. These are 2.00, and I can just picture them being carried by little choir girls who couldn't possibly burn themselves or set the church afire! Bigger "choir girls" would love them too. With a quick sweep of the arm they could replace all the lipstick they'd "sung" off. No doubt about it, these are useful, attractive, and a cheery way of saying, "Happy Holidays" inexpensively.

(Operation Decoy) Good Strategy To Win Siege Of The Cookie Jar

By Linda Pipher
Daily Record Home Economist

With one of the holidays gone and the big one coming up, it's time to plan your strategy for the Siege of The Cookies. With your kitchen as the battleground you must decide when to start and how to do it in a quiet way so that the family doesn't discover your tactics. Then, of course, where are you going to store the assortment of cookie tins so that they won't be detected?

The whole idea being, of course, that come Christmas week, you can proudly display an assortment of baking gems that are indicative of your many hours of patience and work. But you know what happens if you're discovered; little hands — and big ones, too — creep into the tins when you're not around, and then you have to suffer with SHOCK when you open the tins to serve guests.

If you win the campaign, you deserve the Cookie Medal of Honor, which you'll have to make yourself. The only help I can give you is to offer some new recipes, the purpose being twofold. First, it will force you to get back in training, in case you haven't baked a cookie since last December. You'll be forced to dig out the baking sheets, and hunt for the storage utensils. Secondly, these recipes are designed as decoys. They make tasty cookies, and Grenadine syrup is delightful added to summer fruit drinks. Available in bottles in most well-stocked food markets, the syrup is made from pomegranates. Just remember in adding it, that a little goes a long way.

Satisfaction Is Best Pay For Volunteer Work

By Roberta Fleming Roesch
"You won't want to interview me this year because I'm not doing a thing!"

Six months ago, when we had to move, I decided to give up working and, since I'm on no-body's payroll now, I doubt that I have a story. I'm only doing volunteer work in the new town where we live.

These were apologetic words recently tossed to me by a young Connecticut woman whose job once intrigued me so much that I'd promised to write a story on her whenever our paths next crossed.

Too Little, Too Late
But now, to hear this housewife talk, I'd waited too long and it was too late.

And because no weekly paycheck was in her tale, she could see no story in the one day a week she donates to her community.

It Can Be Frustrating To See Time Wasted At Meetings.

At a hospital, the Saturday afternoons she gives over to visiting and playing with cerebral palsied children at a local center, the doorbell ringing and collecting she does and the Sunday mornings she contributes her trained singing voice to the choir of her church.

Feel Useless

Unfortunately, her feelings are common, too, because one of the offshoots of the "Back-to-Work" movement for women seems to be the fact that far too many women who don't have to work for economic reasons (or who don't want to work for any reason) feel more and more that, without a paycheck, they're not really functioning in the eyes of the world.

Sad Outlook

This is an unhappy way to look at things, too, because when you view the work of the world with your heart as well as your head, you see that there's just as much non-paying work to be done as there is paying work.

Granted, some hours at some volunteer jobs, as many of us have found, are not always hours of sweetness and light when we

CAMOUFLAGE — Oatmeal rounds and date pinwheels not only get the ammunition limbered up for Christmas cookies but divert the family's attention from those fancy company "show-off" cookies you'll soon be making.

when the children come home from school they'll say, as they sniff, "Where are they?" Then, instead of the fancy ones you spent hours baking, you bring out one of these. The children happy and satisfied, and you're promoted to General!

The first one is a soft cookie that tastes even better the second day when the spices have drawn through. They couldn't be more nutritious, either, and if the children don't like oatmeal, they'll never know you're a camouflage artist, too.

Spicy Oatmeal Drops
1½ cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cloves
½ cup shortening (or half butter, half margarine)
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg
½ cup milk (or half evaporated milk, half water)
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup walnuts, chopped
1 cup raisins
1 cup quick cooking rolled oats

Sift flour, measure and then resift with baking powder, soda, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. Cream together shortening and sugar, add egg; blend well. Stir in flour mixture alternately with milk and vanilla. Fold in walnuts, raisins, and rolled oats. Drop by tablespoonfuls on greased cookie sheet. Bake about 12 minutes in 375 oven. Makes about 4½ dozen.

The next recipe is one that you can mix while the others are baking; these are put in the freezer at least overnight. They are crunchy, chewy cookies that might even tempt you to hide them for company.

Date Pin Wheels
1 pound pitted dates, cut up
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup water
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
1 egg
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 cups sifted enriched flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped walnuts
In sauce pan combine dates, ½ cup granulated sugar, and water. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick, about 2 to 3 minutes. Cool. Thoroughly cream the butter, brown sugar, and ½ cup granulated sugar. Add egg and beat well. Add vanilla. Sift together dry ingredients; add to creamed mixture, stirring until smooth. Chill. Divide dough in half. On lightly floured surface, roll one part in 12 x 8 inch rectangle, about ¼ inch thick. Combine date mixture and nuts; spread half evenly over dough. Beginning at long edge, roll like jelly roll. Repeat with remaining dough. Wrap rolls in aluminum foil or saran wrapping; package in plastic bag and freeze.

To bake, remove from freezer; slice ¼ inch thick and bake on lightly greased baking sheet in hot 400 oven for 8 to 10 minutes. Makes about 7 dozen.

The next recipe is for a cookie that is like a miniature chocolate cake, and the batter is made in one pan!

Chocolate Coconut Mounds
½ cup salad oil or shortening
3 squares unsweetened chocolate
1½ cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups shredded coconut
In a one quart saucepan, put oil or shortening and chocolate; melt over low heat and cool slightly.

Kids Now Have Their Own Key Club

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

With typical self-sacrifice, the older generation has not spared itself in testing and probing the feasibility of key clubs.

When the elders of our culture found the clubs sound in principle, they were approved for youth participation.

Right now in Cape Coral, Fla., the first key club for youngsters 8 to 19 is in operation.

A few adaptations have been made, of course. The original key clubs were merely after-hour drinking places. Then they became aesthetic oases where tired business and professional men could relax in Edwardian surroundings, exercise their expense accounts and sip liquors served by pretty, under-dressed waitresses.

For Cape Coral's youth the drinks are soft and the relaxation mostly athletic. In the club the kids dance to jukebox music, play table tennis and pool or just lounge around at the 27-foot-long soda bar.

Housed in a modernistic glass and stone structure built at a cost of over $50,000, and donated to the residents of the four-year-old community by its developers, the club is the exclusive preserve of this city's 500 youngsters.

With the exception of one full-time adult supervisor and a few local officials, no adults are admitted to the club unless specifically invited by a young member.

The club is managed by a seven-man board of directors: four youngsters elected by the club members and three adults — Bob Finkernagle, director of community relations; the adult supervisor and the Youth Club manager.

Finkernagle says they were going to build a youth center anyway and he hit on the idea of making it a "playboy club without the business."

His three youngsters, daughters 10 and 16, and an 8-year-old son, all hold keys.

An adult handles the soda bar, on dance nights a couple of sets with part-time young help, and of parents chaperone.

"When it was first announced," says Finkernagle, "parents were concerned that kids could go in at 3 a.m. and neck. But there are two locks on the door and when the clubhouse is not officially open the second lock — the one the kids don't have a key to — keeps them out."

On school nights the house closes at 9; weekends, which are mostly dance nights, it's open until midnight.

"It has become quite a status symbol to have a key," says Finkernagle. "The 7-year-olds can't wait until they're old enough. And the youngsters with keys have them lifted for various periods of time when they get out of line — such as smoking, too much roughhousing, profanity, destructiveness. In their high animal spirits they might do something they shouldn't and then they're brought before the board of directors, who lift the keys."

The house has been open since mid-September, although all the furniture has just now been put in. But the kids couldn't wait and Finkernagle couldn't see why they shouldn't be using it. "The kids were sort of pressing their noses against the glass and I said 'Oh what the heck, let them in.'"

Cape Coral is an upper-middle class community of about 2,200 due west of Ft. Myers on the north shore of the Caloosahatchie River in southwestern Florida. Finkernagle says:

"We have never had any serious problems with the kids here,

ESSC Booters Blank Park In NAIA Meet

Barkman, Heverin On All-Star Team

HALFBACK Toby Barkman and End Joe Heverin of East Stroudsburg State College's Warriors, were named yesterday to the all-star team of the Pennsylvania State Colleges Football Conference.

Barkman, the junior sparkplug of the Warrior attack who scored 80 points, was a repeater from last year along with Joe Iacone, West Chester's fire-plug-shaped fullback.

Iacone, who scored 98 points this season, became the third player in the 12-year conference to make the team three years straight.

Barkman's dazzling open-field running thrilled the fans throughout the season while the performance of Heverin — although much less spectacular — combined to lead the Warriors of Coach Jack Gregory to eight straight victories before succumbing, 13-6, to Slippery Rock in the PSCAC championship game at Slippery Rock Stadium. Heverin, a senior, closed out his collegiate career in that contest.

Tony Nunes of Slippery Rock was the quarterback pick on the team and Allen Sepsi of California was chosen for the other backfield slot by conference coaches.

The line consists of ends Max Miscion of West Chester along with Heverin; tackles Dennis Douds of Slippery Rock and Bill McPherson of California; guards Lou Tezak of West Chester and John Sukenik of Mansfield and center Joe Boccabella of Millersville.

'I Was Blessed' Wills MVP, But No Celebration

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Calm, grateful Maury Wills followed his usual routine Friday — including an afternoon banjo lesson—with no special celebration on his selection as the National League's most valuable player.

"I was blessed," Wills said when informed he had been voted the league's top honor. "I was helped in everything I did this season."

Wills is still recovering from the strenuous season during which he set an all-time base stealing record with 104 swipes. His family wouldn't awaken him for the many telephone calls, so it was late when he learned of his selection.

"Go-Go-Go"

"It was rip-and-run and go-go all season," he said. "Now I'm relaxin' a bit."

The Los Angeles Dodgers shortstop did little relaxing last season as he played in all 165 of his team's games, collected 208

Paul Grube, ESSC's stellar junior center forward, sparked the victory with the first goal of the game in the opening period, and added another marker in the third period.

ESSC scored in every period to completely dominate play and overwhelm their first-round opponents.

Karl Dickel, a senior who plays the inside left position, booted the team's second goal in the second period for a 2-0 bulge.

Grube boosted the East Stroudsburg lead to 3-0 in the third period with his second goal of the day while Al Oberholzer provided a 4-0 lead with another goal in the same period.

Flaherty Scores

Rich Flaherty, a freshman, added the final score for the Eiler squad in the fourth period to complete the rout.

Park College entered the fourth annual NAIA tourney with an 8-2 record, while East Stroudsburg lost only one game — a 2-0 shutout to Elizabethtown — while scoring 10 wins.

Pratt Institute — East Stroudsburg's opponent today — also recorded 10 victories while losing one and tying three.

Last year, the boys of John Eiler lost the opening round of the tourney but defeated Traber College in the consolation round.

The Warrior booters also improved slightly their record of last year which was nine wins and two defeats.

E-burg Gains Possession Of Trophy

EAST Stroudsburg High School's Cavaliers have regained possession of the trophy emblematic of the football championship of the mythical State Belt Big Four by virtue of victories this year over Pen Argyl, Bangor and Stroud Union.

The trophy is awarded by The Daily Record.

Pen Argyl currently is holder of the trophy. A school getting three legs on the trophy gains permanent possession.

Hoop Championships

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—The world amateur basketball championships will be played May 10-25, 1963, in Rio de Janeiro, the International Amateur Basketball Federation said Friday.

Nine other yearlings were led to safety but two and possibly four may have to be destroyed because of injuries. The fire, it was thought, might have been started by an exploding room heater.

Southern California, which has won all eight of its games to rank with Mississippi and Dartmouth as the nation's only unbeaten, untied major elevens, is favored to win by two touchdowns. But back in 1959, under virtually the same conditions, the Bruins scored a 10-3 upset over the heavily favored and unbeaten Trojans.

Wisconsin's Badgers, with a Rose Bowl invitation a certainty, will tangle with Minnesota for the Big Ten championship. Both have almost identical records.

The Badgers, ranked No. 3, have a 7-1 while the Gophers, rated No. 5, have a 6-1-1 slate. The game figures to be a battle between the Badgers' offense, rated the best in the country, against the Gophers' defense, the nation's best on the ground.

The concluding Big Ten round also includes Michigan State (5-3) at Illinois (1-7), Michigan (2-6) at Ohio State (5-3) in a nationally televised game; Indiana (2-6) at Purdue (4-3) and Iowa (4-4) in a non-loop game against Notre Dame.

Conference Games

In other Big Six Conference games Stanford (4-5) will play at California (1-8) and Washington (6-1-2) will play Rutgers (4-4) in a non-league game. However, the East's best game may be Penn State's (8-1) invasion of Pittsburgh (5-4).

Nebraska, enjoying its best season since 1940, has an 8-1 season mark to Oklahoma's 6-2. A Cornhusker victory could throw the loop lead into a tie among Oklahoma, Nebraska and Missouri, provided the Tigers dispose of arch rival Kansas.

Rose, Fraser Star Aussie Swimmers 'Water Wizards'

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Australia's wondrous of the water threatened Friday to turn the swimming competition of the seventh British Empire Games into a strictly home carnival with a cascade of gold medals and world records.

Led by those two unflinching Olympic veterans—Murray Rose and Dawn Fraser—the Australians captured the first two championships with world record performances in the men's and women's 110-yard freestyle races and the 100-yard men's butterfly.

Coach Arthur Cusack expects Miss Fraser, 25, to beat her own time of 59.9 seconds in the women's 110 freestyle; young Kevin Berry to swim the 110-yard butterfly in 59 seconds (eight tenths better than the existing mark) and Peter Dook to beat John Devitt's 55.1 in the men's 110-yard freestyle.

The crowded swimming program shares Saturday's spotlight with a heavy program in track and field and the opening rowing trials plus the continuation of boxing, fencing and bowls.

Track includes the final in the 100-yard dash with Canada's Harry Jerome seeking to beat his own world record of 9.2 seconds.

Rose, a handsome, 22-year-old former student at the University of Southern California, helped the Australians get off to a fast start in the 880-yard men's freestyle relay with a world record of 8:13.5.

Bowl Bids, Perfect Years On Line In Closing Games

Sugar Bowl-bound Arkansas figures to have a breather in Texas Tech, which won its first game last week defeating Colorado after eight straight losses.

The Razorbacks, ranked No. 7, lost all hope for the Southwest Conference championship when Texas came from behind to defeat Texas A&M Thursday but their 8-1 season record earned them the invitation to New Orleans where their opponent, in all probability, will be second ranked Mississippi (8-0), idle this week.

Sonny Gibbs and Randy Kerbow, two fine Southwest Conference passers, face each other as Texas Christian seeks its first victory in three years over Rice. A Rice victory would send the two teams into the final week with the Owls holding an edge in the battle for third place behind Texas and Arkansas. TCU is 4-4 for the season, 3-2 in the conference. Rice is 2-4-2 for the season and 2-2-1 in conference play.

Identical Records

In another SWC game, Baylor plays Southern Methodist. Both have identical 2-6 records.

Oklahoma's Sooners, once again among the nation's football powers, meet the Nebraska Cornhuskers in a game likely to decide the Big Eight Conference representative in the Orange Bowl. The 10th ranked Sooners have a 5-0 conference record.

Nebraska, enjoying its best season since 1940, has an 8-1 season mark to Oklahoma's 6-2. A Cornhusker victory could throw the loop lead into a tie among Oklahoma, Nebraska and Missouri, provided the Tigers dispose of arch rival Kansas.

Says 'Break' Decided Tilt

WHILE Jack Kist, coach of the victorious East Stroudsburg High School Cavaliers was saying the annual inter-boro game "came out like we were hoping it would," Stroud Union Coach Jerry Stulgaitis claimed, "I guess we could almost have written the script at 10 o'clock in the morning."

That was the time, incidentally, of the game-opening kickoff.

Said Kist: "We played it cautious and waited for the break, and in the last quarter we finally got it."

"Defense," he added, "was definitely the answer. When you hold a team to 28 yards rushing, you can't complain about that."

"Real Fine Game"

The Cavalier mentor also added he thought Stroudsburg "played a real fine game but we had a pretty good idea of what to expect, thanks to our scouting reports. It was a good showing of both teams."

Stulgaitis, meanwhile, said the weather proved to be the big difference in the game — particularly with East Stroudsburg's heavier line.

"For us to be running against the stuff they (East Stroudsburg) got was virtually impossible. Our line was about 40 pounds lighter per man, and on a field like that you had to depend entirely on the line play. And we couldn't open them up with a passing attack because of the weather."

Still Not Convinced

"From a standpoint of a true test (between the two teams) Stulgaitis said 'we're still not convinced of who was the better team and I think Jack (Kist) believes the same thing.'"

Stulgaitis added: "I had nothing but praise for the kids. But they almost collapsed due to physical inability... They went as far as they could go and they just ran out of gas."

Of the entire season, Stulgaitis said, "I honestly think we came a long, long way this year. The kids were willing to work and that's all you can ask of them."

And still playing the role of optimist to the hilt, the Stroud Union coach echoed the familiar slogan, "Wait 'til next year."

The Nittany Lions won the Lambert Trophy last season and went on to clobber Georgia Tech in the Gator Bowl, 30-15.

A loss to Pitt would throw both the Lambert and Big Five races into a frenzy. Even the unpredictable Panthers would have a chance to walk off with both crowns—a seemingly impossible task two weeks ago.

Off their corresponding records, the oft-beaten Panthers (5-4) are no match for the powerful Lions (8-1). But on paper the game shapes up as a fairly even duel.

And like all traditional games, previous performances mean nothing. In fact, the underdog usually emerges victorious.

This week, the Gator Bowl committee indicated it wants Penn State back to Jacksonville, Fla. again. The Lions also have been mentioned for the Cotton, Orange, Liberty and Gotham bowls. Pitt's name has been brought up by the Liberty and Gotham committees.

Regardless, the game shapes up as another typical dog-fight between the two arch-rivals.

Battle For Harrier Title

CHICAGO (AP)—A three-man scrap for the individual title looms Saturday in the National AAU Senior Cross Country Championship.

Topping a field of 75 are Max Truex, Pete McArdle and John Gutknecht, all brilliant distance runners who have yet to take this particular 10,000 meter, hill-and-dale chase.

He has won $13,659 in official PGA tournaments, however, for an average of almost $1,000 a start. He won the Canadian Open in July and finished fourth in two other tournaments.

Weaver, who broke the record for 6,789-yard Rio Pinar course with an opening round of 65, went 2-over-par for a 73 Friday and a 36 hole total of 138. In contrast to Thursday when he sank one long putt after another, Weaver needed 36 putts.

Crowe Insurance Away Tonight

CROWE Insurance, having lost seven of the last eight points, travels to Easton tonight, competing against Nazareth Speedway at Easton Recreation. The lineup which will try to break the losing streak will be Jake Nittel, Dick Andrews, Tom Sommers, Carl Kohl and Russ Bergman.

Heavy Favorite

Louisiana State, with a Cotton Bowl bid virtually wrapped up, is a four-touchdown favorite to whip winless Tulane. The Bayou Bengals, nationally rated No. 8, have lost only once and been tied once in nine games. A Tulane defeat would mark the first time in more than 50 years that a Greenlee team has gone through a season without winning at least one game.

Other games involving SEC teams pit Auburn (6-2) against Florida State (4-3-2) and Kentucky (2-5-2) against Tennessee (3-5).

Duke (7-2) takes on North Carolina (3-6) in a game that could give the Blue Devils the Atlantic Coast Conference title. The Devils have won all five conference games. Clemson (5-4) second in the conference with a 4-1 record, plays South Carolina (4-4-1). Virginia meets Maryland in another league game.

First Play Hurt, Hulsizer Laments

WAYNE Hulsizer, coach of the Pleasant Valley Bears which dropped a 12-0 decision to Pocono Mountain's Cardinals Thursday, showed little disappointment in the defeat.

"I think the kids played a good game and that's all we're interested in," commented Hulsizer.

"That first play was a scrimmage really hurt us and we never fully recovered from that," he added.

That was the play in which Mark Mikels crashed off tackle for a 60-yard gallop into pay dirt to which Hulsizer referred.

First Play A TD

"You go out on the field," he continued, "you're all keyed up and the first thing that happens a guy goes 60 yards for a touchdown," he lamented.

The Bear mentor — like Jerry Stulgaitis of Stroud Union — was not overly-fond with the playing conditions and the weather.

"I don't think the weather helped us any," he remarked. "We had a couple boys loose on different occasions but they just couldn't break away for that long gainer."

Praises Lines

Hulsizer echoed pretty much the same sentiments of Pocono Mountain Coach Allen Shollenberger on the line play of both teams.

"I just can't say enough about the line play," said Hulsizer. "Both lines turned in a real fine job."

The Bears' coach also had high praise for the Pocono Mountain school officials whom, he said, "did a wonderful job in getting the field ready under the circumstances."

Shollenberger and other school officials summoned the aid of trucks loaded with sawdust to soak up much of the water which had inundated the field from the heavy rains of the previous night.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Saturday, November 24, 1962

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Niall spending for non-essentials, but increase in it are the building of future security. Practice makes perfect in any field. Produce a new bond.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Traditionally one of keen thinking and sympathy, you may go off on less desirable tangents. Don't drive too hard a bargain. Summarize carefully.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — May deny anything worth while. Countered by rival ideas, your wife should be sharp. Gemini offers the unique touch that sells.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Under day's aspects for fresh gains; romance, children's affairs, benefits for elders, medicine, the clergy, anything you attempt with sincerity and know-how.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Turn down pessimism, but don't turn to hollow day-dreaming. Ignore dangers for what they are. In knowledge there is strength. Humor counts, too.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Take suggestions under advisement. Take precautions in handling vehicles, animals, new equipment, wifely life. That stitch in time saves a lot.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Trim out the superfluous, but don't be so quick that you go too deep. Take time for relaxing, and after obligations, in general, stay with good order.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — That which is practicable is not always pleasing, but reward is sweet when the right time is difficult or trying. There is glory ahead for today's sincere endeavor.

November 24 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — You could place more emphasis on different subjects, matter, either for change, for good of things generally, or because you see obvious coming. Look behind the scenes for clues.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Wait. Has that plan or project determined the right thing NOW? What sort of people are concerned with the things you are planning? Ask questions — and heed answers.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Eyestrain, tension or fatigue could be trouble-makers. A smooth pace eliminates tripping, wear-and-tear. Enjoy obligations and earned leisure time.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — If there is reasonable excuse for something quite unusual from the everyday, it could freshen viewpoint and bring incentive. But steer far from wasteful extremes. Squelch hassling.

OF BORN TODAY: With courage, inward and outward strength, and often unique originality, this sign drives forward to remarkable attainments. You like the best, and go after it. Fine — if you do not let imagination and energies run rampant. Sagittarius always must keep the controls on, even in spirit things, for your very nature does everything in full measure, without thought of preserving stamina or resources. Plenty of water, plainly cooked vegetable, fruits, and regular (not sudden, too strenuous) exercise help mind, body and spirit.

A prayer in church is worth a hundred plans outside, and remember the many leaders of this sign include Mark Twain, Walt D. P. A. a young Leo, and Custer, the early American, cavalry leader. You can stand alone if the purpose is commendable, shun blunt manner, overfrankness. Don't be impatient or harshly resentful. You have too many fine things to live by and for. Would you speak? Then you say "I've thought of birthdays of Pinocchio, Dutch philosopher, Zachary Taylor, 12th U. S. President, Dale Carnegie, author, lecturer, Lawrence Stern, Eng. humorist.

Q. I bought 720 shares of stock of Johnstone Tire & Rubber Co. many years ago. I wanted to find out if this stock had any value. Remembering a column you wrote on old stocks, I did what you suggested. I wrote a letter to the Secretary of State in the capital city of the state in which the company was incorporated — Arizona.

The Daily Investor

Value Of Old Stock

ly, I can only advise people with similar problems to do what you did. The state in which a company is (or was) incorporated is printed on each stock certificate.

In the vast majority of cases, the information such as you received means that the stock is worthless. In some cases, however, there may be some value in old stocks or some money due to stockholders.

With information such as you obtained, you can ask your broker to double-check old corporation records for you. Or you can contact one of the few firms which

But this still does not tell me whether or not the stock is worthless. Is it?

A. Unfortunately for you, yes. You did the correct thing in tracing the value (or worthlessness) of old stock. The office of the Arizona Secretary of State sent you the information it had in its files. Questions from readers concerning old securities seem to run in cycles. A batch has come in late specialize in work of that type. Naturally, those firms do charge a fee.

No plug intended but I have found R. M. Smythe & Co., 79 Wall Street, New York, N. Y., most helpful in tracing old securities. That firm passes on the word that Johnstone Tire & Rubber Co. went out of business in 1923. The stockholders received nothing. Your stock is worthless.

It was de-listed over a year ago, when the number of shares outstanding (not counting "concentrated holdings") fell below the number necessary to meet stock exchange listing requirements.

Actually, there hadn't been a trade in Coca-Cola International stock on the exchange since 1957.

Each share of Coca-Cola International stock can be exchanged for 24 shares of Co-a-Cola Co. stock. So, the market values of the two stocks follow one another — at a 24-to-one ratio. Don't be too surprised at the high price. A number of stocks are quoted at even higher prices. Generally they are stocks of "closely-held" companies, with relatively few stockholders and shares outstanding.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)
